Reduction in Collagen with Age

What Happens To Your Body's Collagen As You Age?

Research suggests that your collagen levels start to decline gradually every year after your 20s.

When you are young, your collagen levels are high. This helps to keep your skin smooth, hair full and nails strong. But as you get older, these levels drop.

You might start to notice your skin doesn't have that fresh look anymore, your hair starts to feel thinner, and your nails become more brittle.

Plus, what's worse, UV exposure, pollution, bad habits, and poor diet choices also contribute to a decline in collagen levels.

The Problem with Most Collagen Supplements On the Market

Unfortunately, not all collagen powders are created the same. Many collagen powders come from only one source, such as cows or fish. But different collagen sources feature different types of collagen.

These different types of collagen support different functions in the body. So, it is best to choose a collagen supplement that comes from multiple high-quality sources. Like Advanced Collagen Plus.

The other problem with most collagens on the market is they are clumpy, taste and smell bad. This can ruin whatever you mix it with. Fortunately, we were able to solve that problem.

Advanced Collagen Plus blends perfectly in both hot and cold liquids, with no clumps in sight. You won't find any bad taste or unpleasant smell here. This is because we source from only top-notch premium ingredients.
